The American State of Florida attracts millions of visitors every year with Orlando being its famous focal point. There is almost an endless list of attractions and exciting things to do in this area ranging from Walt Disney World to Universal Studios and Cape Canaveral Space Center. Orlando was a campground for soldiers during the Seminole Indian war (1835-42). The city itself has 54 lakes within its limits and retains an open park. It is a center for citrus fruits and winter vegetables. Stories abound about how this famous city first got its name. Perhaps the most reliable concerns an American volunteer soldier. During Seminole War in 1835, Orlando Reeves was noticed what appeared to be a log drifting in the lake.

Once he realized it was an Indian sneaking up on the camp, he gave the alarm to alert his company. In gratitude, the volunteer soldiers, who stayed to make the area their home, named the town for their comrade. By 1860, Orlando had become a devoted to raising cotton and cattle. The Civil War was hard, taking people and money away from the town and causing the economy to flounder. The cotton market was hit hard, with no one around to harvest and deliver the crops. A large rainstorm ruined what was left of the cotton crops in 1871.

French Sailor Jacques Cartier came to the island of Montreal in 1535. It has the world's largest inland port. This is the second largest City in Canada after Toronto and before Vancouver. We are going to visit the following places: Mont Royal referred to as "the mountain" by locals; this 764-foot mountain provides excellent view of the city and its popular Old Montreal (Vieux Montreal) Montreal's famous Parisian-style historic district is filled with cultural landmarks. Olympic Stadium; home of the Montreal Expos baseball team, this huge domed-stadium, first built for the 1976 Summer Olympics, is considered an architectural monstrosity.

region's harsh winters, Underground City refers to the extensive web of train stations, restaurants, department stores and hotels all connected underground. Formula One racing ground. MONTREAL - ALBANY, USA (4 HOURS) We will enter USA today and stay in Albany.

DAY 5 ALBANY - NEW YORK CITY

Total driving time is 3 hours

New York is a city of such extremes that any visitor would be hard pressed to describe it without resorting to superlatives. Words like biggest and best come to mind when referring to America's most populated city, the superlatives are not always positive though. The enormous number of people, pace of life and stark urban landscape contribute to an often grim and sometimes frustrating experience when walking along its streets. Despite problems common to most major cities, New York attracts 34 million visitors each year to its man-made canyons.

New York City is a series of islands that embrace five boroughs, or administrative districts:

Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, Richmond (Staten Island) and the Bronx.

Both the Dutch and English spent years quarreling over the rights to Manhattan after its official discovery in 1609 by Englishman Henry Hudson (the Hudson River's namesake), who navigated the area's water ways. Fifteen years later, it was the Dutch who claimed the area by principal colony of New Netherlands. Two years later Peter Minuit, sailing with the Dutch West India Company, finagled the purchase of Manhattan from the local Indians for trinkets worth about 60 guilders, or $24. The English returned in 1664 and, angered by their trade rivalries with the Dutch in Europe, seized New Amsterdam. A more autocratic form of government was instituted, and the area was renamed New York after King Charles II's brother, the Duke of York.

DAY 6 NEW YORK CITY - WASHINGTON DC

Total driving time is 5 hours

We will take a boat tour around the Statue of Liberty, Wall Street, Ground Zero, South Sea port and China town. Depart from New York at 2 pm.
